

Disclaimer:

The two background reports were developed by Heriot-Watt as part of their delivery of SNIFFER project ER20: Tidal Technologies: Key issues across the planning and development process for UK environment agencies. The information contained in these reports was used to inform the development of the final report for the ER20 project report.

Whilst these/this report[s] contain a substantial body of relevant information, they were developed as part of the project process, and as such were not originally intended to be made publicly available. For this reason, they have not been produced in line with SNIFFER's publication standards. Therefore, whilst permission has been granted for Heriot Watt to subsequently release these reports and make them available to others via its website, SNIFFER does not accept responsibility for their content or presentation, and identifies that, as interim reports, the information they contain, or views expressed within them, are entirely the responsibility of the reports' authors.

The final, formal outputs of this project are available for free download on the SNIFFER website.
